just an ultimate day

wake to a private breakfast lavishly set in your sala or garden terrace and be pampered by your personal waiter whilst sipping sparkling wine and enjoying a sumptuous feast. upon finishing, your guide will greet you at your guest residence and escort you to your own private car with driver to whisk you away to ride atop an elephant through jungle and primary rainforests to a secluded waterfall in khao lak - lam ru national park. a short drive on brings you to takuapa river bank where our chef greets you in this private riverside setting to conduct a personalised thai cooking class.

once completed your waiter takes over - seating you waterside and serving you the mouth-watering cuisines of your labours, and perhaps a glass or two of wine or as you desire...

a pleat boat each sits at the riverbed to jet you along the takuapa river to meet with your driver and then as always a choice - either step onboard the stunning Lady Sarojin luxury boat where a sunset cruise awaits with cocktails and canapés served as the sun slips under the horizon line; or allow our pathways therapists to guide you to their relaxation haven where you can enjoy a herbal aroma, royal oriental massage or any massage of choice and a rose milk bath for 2 afterwards with a glass of sparkling wine in hand.

the icing on the cake - The Sarojin beach, flames dance, stars glow and bare feet sink in the sand as you are guided to your own private bbq dining setting on the beach. your private chef awaits you to serve dishes demonstration style as per your wish, leaving you to relive your ultimate day. as the last of dessert is cleared, you are welcomed to celebrate your next 'dream to come true' by the lighting and flying of a thai spirit balloon, which thai tradition believes carries your wishes to the gods - the cherry on top of the ultimate day.

scent, swirl, taste and legs legs legs - oh how I love my.....wines!

The Sarojin offers one of the most comprehensive wine cellars in Thailand. I am delighted to assist you to create just as you wish a 'moment with a glass in hand' at The Sarojin or perhaps a chosen magical location in the stunningly beautiful surrounding national parks.

My passion of wines stems from over 20 years in the industry and the more I have learnt about vine-growing and wine-making the more fascinated I become by the wine industry itself and the pure pleasure of enjoying that perfect drop.

I am honored to have had the opportunities to lecture for the wine and spirit education trust and the London Wine Academy and would be delighted to arrange a private wine tasting just for you. And just as we are delighted to "set your dining table" anywhere we are equally thrilled to "taste with you" anywhere - on a secluded beach, a jungle river bank or waterfall, pool pavilion or at home in the ficus wine cellar. ..

It would also be my greatest pleasure to assist you at any stage with choosing a wine from our multi award winning cellar to be enjoyed at your leisure or paired with a dining experience.

shipwrecked - imagineer style

if you haven't come to the conclusion already that i like a bit of luxury then this may just give it away as when thinking of getting shipwrecked on a sand bar in the andaman the only way i could image it is with your own private chef, butler and a glass in hand whilst lazing at sunset....hmmmm did i mention the set up....shipwrecked imagineer style indeed!

Lady Sarojin, our luxury boat, awaits at our beachfront to private charter you through the enchanting mangrove forest - captain has the knack of achieving the perfect champagne sipping speed in this most beautiful and tranquil of settings. dabble in a cocktail or two from the onboard bar and enjoy chef gogh's home made canapés before you become shipwrecked.

seabound out of the estuary Lady Sarojin arrives to the perfect, pristine sand isle where your butler welcomes you to the region's front row seats for sunset. the isle is your playground for the evening and is set with areas for you to enjoy - cocktail seating at the point for sunset, a dining area overseen by your chef with his array of fresh foods cooked to your liking.....lastly laze with dessert in the coconut lounge.

your island is alight with fireplace and candles and is the perfect place to be shipwrecked with the person you adore most.

don't worry i promise not to really desert you as a traditional Thai longtail boat and Sarojin car will return you to the resort - shipwrecked in Sarojin style!

seafoods, champagne and a sunset walk the beach or sea kayak the bay to pakarang cape where your personal waiter will greet you and escort you to your own front row seat on the cape for sunset.

a bottle of champagne of your choice and a selection of seafood – lobster, prawns, oysters, crab and more can be enjoyed as the sun fades and the firelights of your surrounds glow.

a car waits with a driver to return you to your Sarojin home.

don't just spa when you can spaaaaaaaa!

of all the decadent spa treatments - the faa fait massage (four hand massage) by two of the pathways therapists would have to be the most indulgent and luxurious of all.

take it to the next level by arranging a treatment in a secret location for you and your partner or why not have lunch or dinner afterwards in your own private tranquil spa pavilion... and perhaps a bottle of champagne or two??

spaaaaa has never been soooooooo good!

jewels of the andaman

having had the great fortune to travel to many beautiful and exotic places, I feel so fortunate to have two world class marine scapes on our doorstep - the similan islands and phang nga bay.

the similan islands, sit as a selection of jewels in radiant blue water. they are one of the most beautiful groups of islands I have ever seen. beaches are laid with sugar white sands which blend into the turquoise waters. snorkeling and diving offer privileged glimpses into a vibrant and exotic sea world below.

phang nga bay is simply stunning with its unique and ancient sea and land scapes. towering limestone islands jut dramatically out of the bay's waters, their reflections mirrored in the glassy sea below. amongst them all lies james bond island - and yes we offer vodka martini... shaken not stirred!

personal canoe guides demonstrate the pure grace of acrobats to guide you against sheer limestone walls through challenging secret sea cave canoe journeys, allowing you insights into hidden lagoons and unspoilt natural environments...

incredible sceneries, awe inspiring cruising backdrops, paradise for adventures and photographers alike.

marry the beauty of the similans or phang nga bay with the elegance of our luxury boat Lady Sarojin. allow her crew to woo you with an array of beverages and plethora of mouth-watering cruise cuisines and experience these two very special jewels of the andaman in true style.

pack a picnic and off you go...!

some of my most memorable travels were found simply roaming around and exploring the local areas.

chef juí and his team love going off menu... so choose what you want and when and allow us to pack you a picnic for your adventure. your picnic pack can be brought in a backpack or basket to your guest residence or you are welcome to collect it in the lobby.

now to decide where to go...walk on the beach, bike ride to the waterfall, canoe to the cape, take our hobbie cat sailing boat out.... it really is an adventure of your choice.

a million smiles

one of the things I like the most about working at The Sarojin is knowing that we financially give back to our local community. we have had the most wonderful fortune of being closely involved with the community of khao lak, including building school classrooms and supporting a local school and orphanage.

baan tharn namchai is a local orphanage and we proudly encourage anyone who so desires to visit this wonderfully established organization for what is an uplifting experience. our guides and drivers are delighted to take you and should you wish to collect any books, pens or food items, our driver will happily take you to a local market on the way.

ladies and gentlemen start your ~~engines~~ elephant!

deeply rooted in thai culture, elephant training has traditionally been a family heritage passed down through the generations.

unlike the elephant populations of india and africa, 95% of thailand's elephants are domesticated working elephants and privately owned. the owner and master of an elephant is known as the elephants 'mahout'.

be a 'mahout' for the day by greeting your elephant at the cape to understand how to master the maneuvering of these majestic creatures.

win your elephant over with sure fired elephant bribery and corruption - bathing and the offerings of foods!

understand the special and often lifelong bond the 'mahout' has with their elephant and the sheer power these pachyderms can exert. even in this day and age they are well used in rural thailand and can sometimes be seen wandering the road sides with their 'mahout' in transit to their next working location....

far more exotic to be experiencing such a unique experience of your own on one of thailand's most beautiful beaches!

pinch me i must be dreaming...

i almost fell over when i saw the waterfall all lit by candlelight amidst the jungle and a private dining table just as i had dreamed stepping out of the chauffeured car into the cool evening air, allow yourself to be guided along a candlelit jungle path, the call of the waterfall ever closer, the jungle clears and a magnificent waterfall rises taking centre stage.... wonderland itself....hundreds of candles glow softly, romantically, encircling the natural theatre and creating the most magical of settings. the waterfall-every water drop dancing seemingly for you and only for you.

your private table awaits whenever you are ready, your personal chef creating dishes as you desire.

a wonderland such as this all to yourself and then perhaps a dip in the cool, clear, night waters of the waterfall - filling the last of the senses....touch
