

Condé Nast Traveler Hot List Hotels 2006

SAROJIN

$$

Although the 2004 tsunami sent waves through The Sarojin's then-unfinished rooms, these days the hotel, an hour north of Phuket, makes the most of its beachfront location with uninterrupted stretches of sand. The owners, ex-backpackers whose travel habits took an upmarket turn, have integrated a laid-back vibe into their 56-room luxury lodging. The Paris-trained Thai chef turns out gourmet meals at the beach restaurant and at the more sophisticated Ficus, the dinner pavilion hidden under draping branches. For an underwater perspective, the hotel's 38-foot Lady Sarojin yacht sails to fish-filled depths around the Similan Islands.

When to go: November through April, when the days are dry enough to enjoy all of Khao Lak's delights.

Which room to book: Suites 3 and 4, for the best sea views (doubles, $245–$368).
